Revival of the Green County Area Entrepreneur & Inventors Club

Will your invention change the world? Could your business idea change your industry? And are you interested in meeting other inventors and entrepreneurs in southwest Wisconsin? The Green County Development Corporation (GCDC) and Green County UW-Extension are bringing the Green County Area Entrepreneur and Inventors Club back to life.

“In southwestern Wisconsin we have a lot of resources for entrepreneurs and inventors,” stated Mike Johnson, Executive Director of GCDC. “People who attend these meetings will learn about resources, methods, and services available to new and growing businesses. Attendees might even meet their next business partner or get the spark that takes their idea to the next level.”

The group will hold its 2015 kickoff meeting on Tuesday, March 24 from 6pm-7:30pm at the Green County UW-Extension Community Room at 2841 6th Street in Monroe. A variety of key contacts and helpful resources will be available, so come ready to network! All inventors, entrepreneurs, and interested persons are invited to attend. There is no fee to join the club. “At this kickoff event, we’ll talk about what topics and technical expertise will be most beneficial to the group,” added Victoria Solomon, Community Resource Development Educator with Green County UW-Extension. “This will enable us to develop programming that is tailored to meet the specific needs of our local entrepreneurs and inventors.”
E & I Clubs, as they are commonly known, are numerous throughout Wisconsin. They are great networking meetings for inventors, small business owners, and future entrepreneurs. Generally a guest speaker talks on a timely business orientated subject such as patents, financing, accounting, taxes, employee issues, marketing, etc. Ideas are shared freely between members and guests. E & I Clubs build local economies through helping establish small businesses.

Check out the GCDC website www.GreenCountyEDC.com or the Green County UW-Extension website www.green.uwex.edu for future club listings. RSVP by contacting Mike Johnson at (608) 328-9452 or mike.gcdc@tds.net; RSVPs are appreciated but not required.
